Blast injures South African tourists near Egypt's Giza pyramids

A witness said he heard a "loud explosion" while sitting in traffic.

An explosion targeting a tourist bus injured at least 12 people on Sunday, mostly South African tourists, near a new museum being built close to the Giza pyramids in Egypt, two security sources said.

A third security source said the bus was carrying 25 South African tourists from the airport to the pyramids area, and that four Egyptians in a nearby car were also injured by broken glass.

Security and judicial sources said a rudimentary device containing nails and pieces of metal had been detonated remotely on the perimeter of the Grand Egyptian Museum, not far from the site of a roadside blast that hit another tourist bus in December.

Pictures posted on social media showed a bus with some of its windows blown out or shattered, and debris in the road next to a low wall with a hole in it.

One witness told Reuters he heard a "very loud explosion" while sitting in traffic.

South Africa's foreign ministry said staff from its embassy in Egypt were visiting hospitals to check on the reported injuries.

The museum is due to open next year as the new home for some of the country's top antiquities on a site adjoining the world-famous Giza pyramids. It is part of an effort to boost tourism, a key source of foreign revenue for Egypt.

The sector has been recovering after tourist numbers dropped in the wake of a 2011 uprising and the 2015 bombing of a Russian passenger jet.

There was no damage to the museum from the blast, which happened 50 meters from its outer fence and more than 400 meters from the museum building, the Antiquities Ministry said in a statement.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility.

Egyptian security forces are waging a counter insurgency campaign against Islamist militants, some with links to Islamic State, that is focused in the north of the Sinai Peninsula.

Attacks outside Sinai have become relatively rare, though there have been several security incidents in recent months in Giza, across the Nile from central Cairo.

In December, three Vietnamese tourists and an Egyptian guide were killed and at least 10 others injured when a roadside bomb hit their tour bus less than 2.5 miles from the Giza pyramids.

Rocket fired in Iraqi capital, no casualties

2 A rocket was fired in Iraqi capital Baghdad's heavily-fortified Green Zone, which houses government buildings and foreign embassies, but caused no casualties, the Iraqi military said on Sunday. A blast was heard in central Baghdad on Sunday night, Reuters witnesses said, and two Baghdad-based diplomatic sources also said they heard the blast. "A Katyusha rocket fell in the middle of the Green Zone without causing any losses, details to come later," the military said in a brief statement. The Katyusha multiple rocket launcher is an inexpensive type of rocket artillery that can deliver explosives to a target quicker than conventional artillery, but is less accurate. Police special forces found a rocket launcher in al-Sina'a district in eastern Baghdad and have sealed off the area, a police source told Reuters. REUTERS

Graduation speaker pledges to pay off students' debt

3 Billionaire investor Robert Smith surprised graduating students at Morehouse College in Atlanta, Georgia, by using his speech at Sunday's commencement ceremony to pledge to pay off the student loan debt of the entire class of 2019. Video footage of Smith's remarks show mouths falling agape before students rise to their feet to cheer and applaud as the pledge is made. "This is my class, 2019, and my family is making a grant to eliminate their student loans," Smith said during his speech, pointing toward hundreds of students dressed in black robes and mortarboards. "I know my class will make sure they pay this forward," Smith added. The black founder and chief executive of the private equity firm Vista Equity Partners has a net worth of about $4.4 billion, according to a 2018 estimate by Forbes magazine. REUTERS

Bank flagged Trump transactions for watchdog: NYT

4 Anti-money laundering specialists at Deutsche Bank AG recommended in 2016 and 2017 that multiple transactions involving entities controlled by President Donald Trump and his son-in-law, Jared Kushner, be reported to a federal financial-crimes watchdog, the New York Times reported on Sunday. The newspaper, citing five current and former Deutsche Bank employees, said executives at the German-based bank, which has lent billions of dollars to the Trump and Kushner companies, rejected their employees' advice. The reports were never filed with the government. The Times said the transactions, some of which involved Trump's now-defunct foundation, set off alerts in a computer system designed to detect illicit activity, according to the former bank employees. REUTERS

Trump blasts Republican lawmaker Amash over impeachment remarks

"Lightweight" and "loser" were some of the president's responses to Rep. Justin Amash.

Donald Trump lashed out on Sunday at the first Republican congressman to call the president's behavior impeachable, while Democrats warned Trump's stonewalling of congressional probes is strengthening the case for an impeachment inquiry.

Trump called Republican Rep. Justin Amash "a total lightweight" and "a loser" on Twitter, a day after the Michigan conservative said the Mueller report showed that the Republican president "engaged in specific actions and a pattern of behavior that meet the threshold for impeachment."

Amash's criticism made calls in the U.S. Congress for Trump's impeachment bipartisan, though just barely, with most Republicans still standing by the president at a time of economic growth, turbulent markets and global trade tensions.

Saying most lawmakers have not read it, Amash cited Special Counsel Robert Mueller's 448-page report on Russian meddling in Trump's favor in the 2016 U.S. election. On Twitter on Saturday, Amash said the report showed Trump had obstructed justice and added, "President Trump has engaged in impeachable conduct."

A frequent Trump critic, Amash is a part of the House Freedom Caucus, a conservative faction. He has also signaled he would consider running as a libertarian against Trump in 2020.

Counter-punching in his usual style, Trump tweeted: "Never a fan of @justinamash, a total lightweight who opposes me and some of our great Republican ideas and policies just for the sake of getting his name out there through controversy ... Justin is a loser who sadly plays right into our opponents hands!"

Trump will have a chance to make his case to supporters on Monday at a rally planned for Montoursville, Pennsylvania.

Amash's comments echoed the conclusions of many Democrats. House of Representatives Speaker Nancy Pelosi has said that Trump was moving closer to impeachment with his stonewalling of numerous congressional investigations of him and his presidency.

Still, Democrats are divided about impeachment. With 2020 election campaigns heating up, Pelosi said impeachment proceedings would be "divisive" for the country.

IMPEACHMENT PROCESS

No U.S. president has ever been removed from office as a direct result of the U.S. Constitution's impeachment process. The House of Representatives has impeached two presidents. Both were acquitted by the Senate.

The Mueller report, now at the center of an escalating oversight battle between Trump and House Democrats, detailed extensive contacts between Trump's 2016 campaign and Russia, but did not find that there was a conspiracy with Moscow. The report also described actions Trump took to try to impede Mueller's investigation, but made no formal finding on the question of obstruction, leaving the matter to Congress.

Amash also said on Twitter that Attorney General William Barr, a Trump appointee, "deliberately misrepresented" Mueller's report when he oversaw the roll-out of a redacted version.

There were no signs on Sunday of other Republicans following Amash's lead. Another Trump critic, Republican Sen. Mitt Romney, said on Sunday that Amash made "a courageous statement," yet also told CNN's "State of the Union" program that he did not believe Mueller's findings supported impeachment. REUTERS

White House 2020 hopefuls turn to foreign policy, slam Trump on Iran

Reps. Tulsi Gabbard and Seth Moulton say tensions with Iran can lead to another war.

Two Democrats with U.S. military experience who are vying for the party's 2020 presidential nomination shifted the focus of the race to foreign policy on Sunday, criticizing Republican President Donald Trump for escalating tensions with Iran that could lead to war.

The relationship between Washington and Tehran has become increasingly strained in recent weeks, raising concerns about a potential U.S.-Iran conflict.

Trump and hawkish foreign policy advisers like national security adviser John Bolton and Secretary of State Mike Pompeo want Tehran to give up its nuclear and ballistic missile programs.

Trump has tightened economic sanctions against Iran, aimed at forcing its leaders into negotiations. Pompeo last year outlined a list of demands on Iran that critics said showed he was pushing for regime change.

Rep. Tulsi Gabbard, one of 24 Democrats vying for the White House nomination, said on ABC's "This Week with George Stephanopoulos" that Trump was "leading us down this dangerous path toward a war with Iran."

"He says he doesn't want it, but the actions of him and his administration, people like John Bolton and Mike Pompeo, tell us a very different story. They are setting the stage for a war with Iran that would prove to be far more costly, far more devastating and dangerous than anything that we saw in the Iraq War," Gabbard said.

Trump has said he is not pushing for war with Iran. During the 2016 presidential campaign, he promised to stay out of overseas conflicts, saying the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq were too costly.

In May 2018, Trump withdrew the United States from a multinational deal with Iran negotiated by the Obama administration that reduced economic sanctions on Tehran in exchange for scaling back its nuclear program. Trump criticized the deal as weak, saying he would negotiate a stronger one.

Gabbard, 38, enlisted in the U.S. Army National Guard after the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks and was twice deployed to the Middle East. Gabbard has said she is running for president to end regime-change wars, though she currently trails most of her 2020 opponents in opinion polls.

Another White House hopeful, Rep. Seth Moulton, a 40-year-old former U.S. Marine Corps officer who did four tours in Iraq, told "This Week" that if the Trump administration sends additional troops to the Gulf it could "drag us into war."

"Make no mistake, this is exactly what John Bolton wants to have happen," said Moulton, who also trails in 2020 opinion polls. "The world is so dangerous when you have a weak commander in chief in the president of the United States."

"I think it's time for the generation that fought in Iraq and Afghanistan to take over for the generation that sent us there."

Seth Moulton

Moulton counts as a mentor former Vice President Joe Biden, who currently leads the 2020 Democratic field in support. When asked why Democratic primary voters should back him over his mentor, Moulton said: "I think it's time for the generation that fought in Iraq and Afghanistan to take over for the generation that sent us there." Google suspends some business with Huawei after Trump blacklist

A source told Reuters that Alphabet has halted hardware and software transfer business.

Alphabet Inc.'s Google has suspended business with Huawei that requires the transfer of hardware, software and technical services except those publicly available via open source licensing, a source familiar with the matter told Reuters on Sunday, in a blow to the Chinese technology company that the U.S. government has sought to blacklist around the world.

The move could hobble Huawei's smartphone business outside China as the tech giant will immediately lose access to updates to Google's Android operating system.

The next version of its Android smartphones will also lose access to popular services including the Google Play Store and Gmail and YouTube apps.

"Huawei will only be able to use the public version of Android and will not be able to get access to proprietary apps and services from Google," the source said.

The Trump administration on Thursday added Huawei Technologies Co. Ltd. to a trade blacklist, immediately enacting restrictions that will make it extremely difficult for the company to do business with U.S. counterparts.

On Friday the U.S. Commerce Department said it was considering scaling back restrictions on Huawei to "prevent the interruption of existing network operations and equipment." It was not immediately clear on Sunday whether Huawei's access to mobile software would be affected.

The extent to which Huawei will be hurt by the U.S. government's blacklist is not yet known as its global supply chain assesses the impact. Chip experts have questioned Huawei's ability to continue to operate without U.S. help.

Details of the specific services affected by the suspension were still being discussed internally at Google, according to the source. Huawei attorneys are also studying the impact of the blacklist, a Huawei spokesman said on Friday. Huawei was not immediately reachable for further comment.

REUTERS

Representatives of the U.S. Commerce Department did not immediately have comment.

POPULAR APPS

Huawei will continue to have access to the version of the Android operating system available through the open source license, known as Android Open Source Project (AOSP), that is available for free to anyone who wishes to use it. There are about 2.5 billion active Android devices worldwide, according to Google.

But Google will stop providing Huawei with access, technical support and collaboration involving its proprietary apps and services going forward, the source said.

Huawei has said it has spent the last few years preparing a contingency plan by developing its own technology in case it is blocked from using Android. Some of this technology is already being used in products sold in China, the company has said.

In an interview with Reuters in March, Eric Xu, rotating chairman of Huawei, struck a defiant note in anticipation of retaliatory actions by U.S. companies. "No matter what happens, the Android community does not have any legal right to block any company from accessing its open-source license," he said.

'John Wick 3' knocks down 'Avengers: Endgame' with $57 million debut

"Endgame" was still able to collect $29.4 million at the box office.

Earth's Mightiest Heroes put up a good fight, but John Wick put an end to the three-week box office reign of "Avengers: Endgame."

Propelled by positive reviews, "John Wick: Chapter 3 - Parabellum" beat expectations with a debut of $57 million from 3,850 North American locations. That was enough to nab the box office crown from "Avengers: Endgame," Marvel's latest juggernaut that collected $29.4 million during its fourth weekend of release.

"Parabellum," the third installment of the action franchise, opened well above its predecessors 2014's "John Wick" ($14.4 million) and 2017's "John Wick: Chapter 2"

Keanu Reeves arrives for a screening of the movie "John Wick: Chapter 3 - Parabellum" in Los Angeles. REUTERS

($30.4 million). In "Parabellum," Keanu Reeves returns as the titular ex-hitman who finds himself on the run from assassins. Stuntman-turned-director Chad Stahelski helmed the movie, written by series creator Derek Kolstad. Halle Berry and Laurence Fishburne also star.

"John Wick 3" was a much-needed win for Lionsgate. The studio suffered a string of flops with its big-budget reboot of "Robin Hood" with Taron Egerton, a "Hellboy" remake, and the Liam Neeson thriller "Cold Pursuit."

"Avengers: Endgame," which slid to second place on domestic box office charts, has now earned $771 million in North America, passing "Avatar" and its $761 million haul to become the second-highest-grossing movie at the domestic box office behind "Star Wars: The Force Awakens" ($937 million). It's still the No. 2 biggest title worldwide, following just "Avatar" with $2.78 billion.

"John Wick 3" opened alongside Universal and Amblin's "A Dog's Journey" and Warner Bros. and MGM's "The Sun Is Also a Star."

"A Dog's Journey" arrived below expectations, launching at No. 4 with $8 million from 3,200 venues. It's pacing significantly below 2017's "A Dog's Purpose," the original film in the saga about a canine's adventure to find meaning. That movie debuted with $18 million and went on to earn $64 million at the domestic box office. It became a big hit with international audiences, grossing $140 million overseas.

This weekend's final new wide release, "The Sun Is Also a Star," collapsed with a disastrous $2.6 million bow from 2,073 theaters. The YA romance drama, based on Nicola Yoon's novel, received mixed reviews. It earned a lackluster B-CinemaScore, as well as a 51 percent on Rotten Tomatoes. "Grown-ish" actress Yara Shahidi stars as a brainy student who forms a relationship with a charming exchange student ("Riverdale"'s Charles Melton), as her family faces deportation.

Ticket sales have fallen around 10 percent behind last year, according to Comscore. Hollywood is banking on some big blockbusters, as well as a few surprise hits, to boost revenues during the busy summer movie season.

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

“Don’t Get ANY Surgery Until You See This...”

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It’s Best “Treatment Formula” For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going to be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it’s complex. In other words, it’s not a simple, easy fix.

But I’m sure you already know that. Or you wouldn’t be reading this.

That’s the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It’s amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

While I can’t give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD “Treatment Formula” A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW...

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these “gel injections” without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patient. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here’s What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our “Treatment Formula.”

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what’s going on and what is your best course of action... step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what’s going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I’m out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

TRENDY MEDITATION RETREATS COULD BE BAD FOR YOUR HEALTHFACTS ABOUT THE STUDY:

Scientists at the University College London surveyed 1,232 people who attended residential meditation programs worldwide.

Most people who suffered unpleasant experiences were involved in Vipassana or Koan, which encourage insight through questioning permanence of the self and the reality of sensations.

Men are more likely to live such experiences than women.

People who do not have a religious belief suffer more than religious ones.

29.2% of those who practiced only deconstructive types of meditation reported an unpleasant experience.

RESULTS:
25% of people who regularly meditate experience anxiety or fear.

20.3% of people suffered while being engaged in other forms of meditation.

WHAT DOES THAT MEAN?

Marco Schlosser, research lead at UCL, said that meditation which reduces familiar feelings and views can engender sudden feelings of danger, particularly among inexperienced people.

Demand Soars At NYC Medical Clinic For Promising Back Pain Treatment

Can This Medical Technology Possibly Eliminate Or Greatly Reduce Even The Most Severe Back Pain... Almost Instantly?

The Advanced Medical Treatment Every Back & Neck Pain Sufferer Needs To Know - No Matter How Bad The Pain Is Or How Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NYC Pain MD is a medical clinic with two locations in New York City that has made a name for itself by treating the worst cases of back or neck pain.

Here is what every back and neck pain sufferer who has failed to respond to other treatments and does not want surgery should know about one of the best treatment options available today for severe back and neck pain including when, why and where you should consider this treatment to get maximum results.

If you suffer with back, neck or nerve pain, you have probably already tried many treatments... especially countless pain medications.

Experienced doctors understand that even though pain medications such as anti-inflammatory pain pills are part of the recommended early treatment plan for back pain... they are rarely the answer.

In most cases they have minimal, short term results (if any) and have a laundry list of potential side effects. Some being serious and even life threatening.

Are there any better options?

Thankfully, advancements in science and technology come extremely fast. And now there is very good option to help relieve the pain.

An option that a lot of back and neck pain sufferers may have never heard of before.

Before we get into these treatments, please understand this...

NYC Pain MD is a REAL medical clinic that has treated the worst cases of back pain. Patients travel from all over to be treated at one of their clinics for all sorts of joint and muscle pain because they want the best medical treatments available.

What you are about to discover is a REAL medical treatment. Not some miracle cure you see on infomercials or on the internet.

Know this fact: There is no one treatment that will help every case of back pain.

And we cannot guarantee this treatment will work for you. But this treatment has already helped countless back and neck pain sufferers who had given up hope. I bet many just like you.

What is this treatment? It's called...

Radiofrequency Neurotomy

"Radiofrequency Neurotomy" is often referred to as RF for short.

RF is a procedure that is based on the theory that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

There are many nerves around your spine and one of their jobs is to sense PAIN.

Radiofrequency waves are delivered to these nerves under advanced imaging to "block" the nerves.

Two procedures are performed. First, a test, diagnostic "Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function.

If this first "test" procedure is successful, the Radio Frequency Neurotomy is scheduled and performed for longer term relief.

What Results Can You Expect?

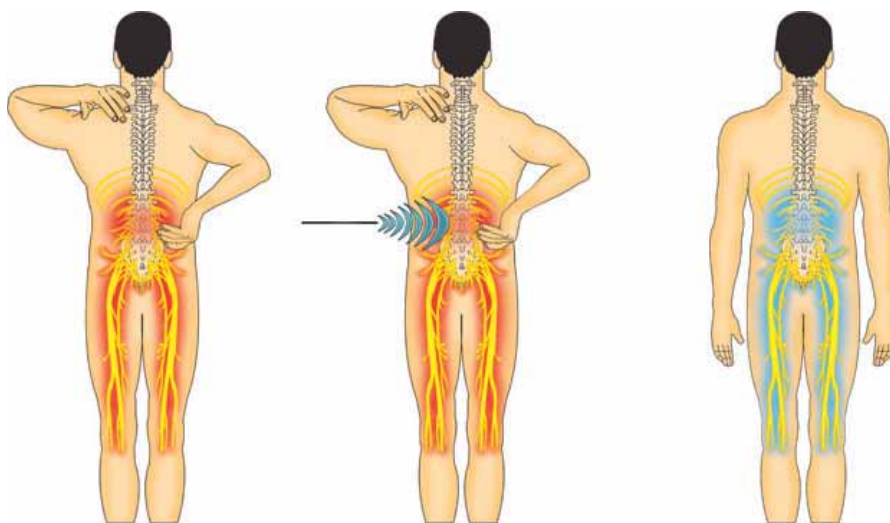

Like all real medical procedures... results vary for individual patients. No good and ethical doctor would guarantee any exact results for any procedure... that's just not how things work and it would be less than honest.

That's being said, it is not uncommon for patients to get complete, if not significant relief of their pain shortly after the treatment.

How Long Do The Results Last?

This procedure "blocks" the nerves pain signals... it does not destroy them. Therefore, the results are safe but not completely permanent. But, many patients get relief for 6 months... 12 months... 18 months for some and some even longer. The great news is - another procedure can be safely performed for more relief if necessary.

Advanced Treatment Uses Radio Frequencies To Relieve Serious Neck & Back Pain

Science rescues back & neck pain sufferers?: Radio Frequency Waves are used to block the nerve supply to the painful area and may alleviate pain and restore function to many.

While we cannot claim this is a complete "permanent cure" but... it can be a god-send for so many who were in constant pain.

Really... what would it be worth it to you could get out of pain for long enough so you could start enjoying your everyday life again?

Would it be worth it to be able to finally get a good nights sleep again?

How about being able to go for a simple walk or just do your basic daily chores without worrying about so much pain?

Is It Safe?

Yes. This procedure has been done countless times and continues to have an excellent safety record. It is minimally invasive and is not surgical.

Who Should Try This Treatment?

RF should be considered after other treatments, such as anti-inflammatory pain medication and physical therapy do not offer good enough results.

RF has also been found effective AFTER back surgery when patient's still feel pain.

The pain after a failed back surgery can be debilitating for some and this procedure may be the only thing that helps give you relief.

What To Do Next If You Are In Pain And The "X" Factor

Here is the "X" factor many do not consider that might be the difference between you getting the best possible treatment or not.

Many experts suggest choosing a medical clinic that offers all these treatments and has the proper, most advanced technology all under one roof without the need for a surgical center or hospital.

Major Savings In Time And Costs Of Care?

NYC Pain MD's method allows you to avoid expensive hospital or out patient surgery-center facility fees which often run 3 to 4 times the cost of the procedure itself. And you don't have to go through the huge stress and time consuming process of going all over the city to outside centers. All the NYC Pain MD treatments can be done in out in-office procedure suites saving you stress, time and dollars. NYC Pain MD believes this additional "X" factor is one of the reasons so many back pain sufferers travel from all over to be treated at one of their advanced medical clinics.

Hip-hop icon DMC still 'King of Rock'

The Hollis, Queens-bred rap legend is helping raise cancer awareness with a charity boxing class on Tuesday at Rumble.

JEFF TOMKO
jeff.tomko@metro.us

More than three decades have passed since a teenage trio of hip-hop artists from Hollis, Queens, helped break MTV's color barrier.

It's hard to envision today that the video network could hardly find airtime for top funk artists like The Gap Band and Rick James '80s. Then along came Run-DMC, in hip-hop's infancy, with the 1984 hit track "Rock Box." The guitar riff-heavy rap changed music's landscape when it became the first rap video ever to appear on MTV.

"Truth be told, [the guitar] did give us an advantage," DMC admits.

"First Michael [Jackson] came on [MTV], then us. But 'Rock Box' was never a rock thing, it was always a hip-hop thing."

Three platinum albums followed the group's debut, sending the Adidas-wearing trio's popularity into the stratosphere with hits including another rock-influenced rap, "King of Rock."

"We had the balls to call ourselves the kings of rock, not kings of rap," DMC says. "When I wrote that rhyme, I wasn't thinking of battling Kool Moe Dee or Melle Mel. I wanted Stevie Wonder, Jimi Hendrix and Elvis to bow when I walked in the room [laughs]. That was my intention, as a 16-year-old."

But what sent the rappers into the music mainstream was their 1986 "Walk This Way" collaborative remake with Aerosmith. However, as DMC explains, the idea almost sent the rappers out the door.

Back in rap's early days, DMC says, it was normal for DJs to cover their album labels with tape or even rip off the labels to prevent a rival DJ from coming over, looking down at the label and then going to the record store and getting that record. DMC says they only knew the song as "Toys in the Attic No. 4" (the fourth song on the album).

If the rappers had their way, DMC puts it, the song would've had a completely different spin — until legendary producer Rick Rubin explained the idea to redo the song with the band in 1986.

"Jay, rest in peace, was like, wow, that's a great idea," DMC says. "Me and Run, we're like, hell f—in' no. We were rhyming. We had never heard the lyrics until right after that conversation [with Rubin]. Reluctantly, me and Run gave in."

Run-DMC dissolved

following the shooting death of Jam Master Jay in a Jamaica recording studio in 2002. While Reverend Run remained in the public eye due to his reality series, and the group's induction into the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame in 2007, DMC fell off the lyrical radar a little bit.

"I remember I was at a gas station on Long Island, and this young white kid comes up to me. 'Oh s—, you used to be DMC,' he says. I was like, I'm still DMC. Is Bruce Springsteen no longer Springsteen if he doesn't have an album out?"

Today, DMC (real name Darryl McDaniels) is back in the studio, collaborating with musical veterans Sammy Hagar, Joan Jett, Dave Navarro and Sebastian Bach on a new studio album. Social issues such as gun violence drive the lyrics for the 54-year-old in a recently released song, "Flames," featuring Disturbed bassist John

Following the death of his father Byford nearly 15 years ago, DMC says he became heavily involved with cancer organizations. On Tuesday, DMC will be hosting a charity boxing class at Manhattan's Rumble Boxing to benefit the National Foundation for Cancer Research (NFCR), though he won't be lacing up the gloves. "No, I'll be a voice of inspiration from the sidelines," he says.

The event will also launch DMC's newest PSA for the organization, "Below the Surface," which stars his son Dson, also a hip-hop artist. For some, it may be hard to see a correlation between gun violence and cancer, but DMC has found a similarity.

"The emotions are the same, because both can be preventable," DMC says. Motherf—ers don't have to get shot. People are dying from gunshots, cancer, suicide. These can be prevented if you're providing the right information. That's what is important about using acting, music, storytelling — to get the message across. No one is picking up a medical book about cancer. But if they're seeing something, you can relate and know how close it is to you."

Tickets for Tuesday's charity boxing match at Rumble (146 W. 23 St.) can be purchased for a $50 charitable donation at NFCR.org/belowthesurface.

Stars of 'Dead Don't Die' share their love of zombies

Stars of zombie comedy film "The Dead Don't Die," written and directed by Jim Jarmusch, tell all. PAULO PORTUGAL, MWN

Zombie movies, who still fears them? In fact, most of us still want to be frightened by them as part of our collective desire of mad entertainment.

Fortunately, these stubborn creatures that don't stay put in their graves rise up again in the retro-campy "The Dead Don't Die," the chosen opening film for the 72nd Cannes Film Festival in French Cote D'Azur. Of course they don't die — they're zombies! "Only if you chop their head off," advises Tilda Swinton, the Scottish blond undertaker with a keen use of Asian sword. Remember Uma Thurman in "Kill Bill"?

Well, "The Dead Don't Die" is just that — pure entertainment. It can be seen as some kind of hors d'oeuvres for the Palm D'Or contenders that will be revealed on the evening of Saturday, May 25, as the final decision of the international jury presided over by Alejandro Inárritu, and followed by Italian actress and filmmaker Alice Rohrwacher, American actress Elle Fanning, American Kelly Reichard, Burkinabe actress and filmmaker Maimouna N'Diaye, French graphic novel and filmmaker Enki Bilal, Greek director Yorgos Lanthimos, Polish director Pawel Pawlikowski and French director Robin Campillo.

Early on, Inárritu told the press he was "very honored" to return to Cannes 20 years after "Amores Perros" and chair the jury of the Official Selection, especially being the first Mexican director ever to do so. He also shared his concern regarding the film crisis by asking the audience that filled the Lumiere Theatre, "How many of these films will be seen around the world? Especially in Mexico."

He called the few "art cinemas" in his country "heroes." The director of "The Revenant," honored in 2016 with the Academy Award, did not ignore the controversy regarding viewing-platform changes after Netflix increased its share of the market (and won several accolades last year for fellow countryman Alfonso Cuarón, with "Roma"), saying that films have "capitalized" by appearing on TV. On the other hand, he did not avoid the topic involving one certain politician wishing to build walls on the border with Mexico.

Zombies never die

Of course, Jim Jarmusch is a Cannes darling, having been awarded four times starting with the Camera D'or (for best new film) for "Stranger Than Paradise," in 1984, "Mystery Train" (1989), his short "Coffee and Cigarettes" (1993) and "Broken Flowers" (2005). He has been around in recent years, with "Paterson" being his latest, in 2016.

Of course, one has to recall the vampire element in "Only Lovers Left Alive" (2013), starring Tilda Swinton and Tom Hiddleston, as we approach this new film, a close reference to the classic zombie films, mainly to George Romero style. However, the result is a bit of a letdown, as horror itself is overturned by the latest film paved with stars having to be in competition even if his mild thrills would be more suited as an "out of competition" entry. That being said, it's always fun when we see these creatures that rise up from the grave and try to spook us with those strange movements. Especially, in this case, with a very dry sense of humor.

You have to admit that it is funny seeing these decadent ghouls crumbling around, and maybe because they do seem to understand their awkward position and start to evaluate the cynical lives of the living, as a clever reflection for the viewer to chew on.

Jarmusch — surrounded by actors Tilda Swinton, Bill Murray, Chloe Sevigny and Selena Gomez — had the opportunity to admit his references to Mr. Romero's work.

"George Romero is really our guide in this kind of post-modern version of zombie movie. We look up to him and put a lot of his references in the films", he said.

Jarmusch did admit the "entertainment" aspect, adding, however, "it's a hell of a lot better if they mean something."

"I like to think of this film as a horror comedy, but I'm not the best person to understand that."

He then affirmed his love for the 1968 cult classic "Night of the Living Dead," however admitting his admiration of Sam Raimi's work and both John Carpenter and Dario Argento, two directors he had the chance to meet at the film's event. "Romero is really important for me," he said. But he wanted to be clear about Romero's difference between men and ghouls.

"We're all really dead!"

"Monsters come from outside of the social structure. They are menacing from outside. But Romero's zombies come from within our collapsing social structure, and they are victims as well. They are both victims and monsters."

And then there's the voice of Tom Waits that actors Adam Driver and Bill Murray hear in the film, saying: "We're all really dead!"

Don't give up on Public Service Loan Forgiveness

NerdWallet is a personal finance website.

New data from the U.S. Department of Education show that 518 borrowers' federal student loans have been canceled via Public Service Loan Forgiveness (PSLF) as of March 2019.

The average amount forgiven was $59,244.

While fewer than 1 percent of those who have applied for forgiveness have been successful, the low approval rate isn't necessarily unexpected — and it doesn't those holdups become less of an issue. Here's why.

Some borrowers haven't made enough payments
A lack of qualifying payments is the most common reason PSLF applications are rejected, accounting for more than 50 percent of all denials, according to department data.

You must make 10 years of on-time, in-full payments to qualify for PSLF. Employment gaps, missed renewals for payment plans and other periods of nonpayment, like loan forbearance, that happen during that time frame could delay potential forgiveness.

Borrowers should expect to be in repayment for an additional year or two due to such interruptions, says Paul S.

mean PSLF is hopeless.

In a statement to NerdWallet, Education Department Press Secretary Liz Hill said: "The Department expects few people to be immediately eligible for a loan discharge under the Public Service Loan Forgiveness (PSLF)

Program."

In part, that's because it takes at least 10 years to qualify for PSLF — the first borrowers became eligible in October 2017 — and the program has many complexities to navigate. Success should become more common as Garrard, president and founder of PG Presents, an independent student loan counseling company in Shepherdstown, West Virginia.

"I think it is realistic to expect to see significant [forgiveness] numbers in 2021 or later," Garrard says.

If you do qualify for PSLF but apply too early, your rejection notice will include how many payments short you are, so you'll know when it makes sense to reapply.

Some loans aren't eligible
Sixteen percent of PSLF applications are denied because the borrower has the wrong type of loans, according to department data. Only federal direct loans qualify for PSLF; older loans from the Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) program do not.

"FFEL loans are federal, but they were not made by the federal government," says Garrard. "Hence, they are not considered eligible loans."

FFEL borrowers can consolidate these student loans to qualify for PSLF. Consolidation restarts the payment clock, though, meaning you would have to make 120 payments on the new consolidated loan before receiving forgiveness. Those who took this step after the FFEL program ended in 2010 could be eligible for forgiveness as early as 2020.

Some used the wrong repayment plan

Only payments made under the standard repayment plan or an income-driven repayment plan qualify for PSLF. But there is hope if you were denied forgiveness for using an incorrect repayment plan, such as extended or graduated repayment.

These borrowers can request forgiveness under an alternate version of PSLF, known as Temporary Expanded Public Service Loan Forgiveness. This program was introduced in 2018, and according to department data, 442 TEPSLF requests have been approved to date, with an average balance of $39,723 forgiven.

Some simply don't qualify
PSLF's low approval rate

can also be attributed to borrowers applying who shouldn't.

The Education Department offers a PSLF Help Tool outlining the program's qualifications. However, the best way to confirm your eligibility is to submit an Employment Certification Form. Providing an ECF is not required, though borrowers are encouraged to do so.

"Without the critical information provided on the ECF, the Department has no way of knowing which borrowers may potentially be interested in or eligible for PSLF," Hill said. "Submitting an ECF annually reduces the possibility of an unexpected outcome for borrowers."

Borrowers who skip the ECF may learn too late that they don't qualify for PSLF. If you find yourself in this situation, stick with income-driven repayment — which forgives any remaining loan balance after 20 or 25 years of payments — and look at other student loan forgiveness programs. Either may provide eventual relief from your debt.

Mets manager Mickey Callaway is on the hot seat. GETTY IMAGES

MICKEY CALLAWAY TO BE LATEST METS SCAPEGOAT FOR WILPON FAMILY

PANTORNO'S PERCH

JOE PANTORNO
@JoePantorno

New York Mets manager Mickey Callaway's hot seat is only getting warmer after an embarrassing series loss to the lowly Miami Marlins over the weekend.

The Mets' seemingly annual implosion has been ahead of schedule in 2019, as the usual June or July swoon has red flags flying in May.

After starting the season 9-4, which included three series victories, the Mets went 11-19 in their next 30 with just two series wins.

Things hit a new low this weekend as the Mets were swept by the lowly Miami Marlins, including a two-game stretch in which they recorded just three hits in 18 innings. It was the Marlins' first sweep over an opponent in two years.

For a Mets team that was touted by general manager Brodie Van Wagenen to be the class of the National League East before the season, they are already in danger of losing pace with the first-place Philadelphia Phillies.

Callaway has had his faults throughout his first 200-plus games as a major-league manager with the Mets. He's had problems properly managing his bullpen, sitting hot bats at the wrong times, and mismanaging crucial in-game situations.

Yet Callaway is not responsible for putting together a team that has once again created a false illusion of contending during the winter.

Backed by the stingy ownership of the Wilpon family, general manager Brodie Van Wagenen attempted to do his best with what was given to him.

Robinson Cano, Edwin Diaz, Wilson Ramos and Jed Lowrie seemed like solid consolation prizes for ownership's refusal to go after Bryce Harper or Manny Machado in free agency.

At 36 years old, Cano is on pace for his worst season ever as a pro, batting .245 while continuing to exhibit an inability to hustle. Ramos, a .272 career hitter, was five points worse than Cano at .240.

Diaz has not been the same kind of dominant pitcher he was last year with the Seattle Mariners, and Lowrie has yet to appear in a game this season due to a slew of injuries.

The Mets' starting rotation, usually a crown jewel of the organization, was ranked 21st in baseball with a 4.70 ERA as of Saturday night.

Instead of going out and signing Dallas Keuchel or Gio Gonzalez for left-handed pitching depth, the penny-pinching Mets have continued to deal with the inconsistencies and injuries of Steven Matz and Jason Vargas at the bottom of their rotation.

And in the meantime, they've used the likes of Wilmer Font and Chris Flexen as spot starters.

Callaway can't sign Keuchel or other starting pitching help.

He also can't go out and sign legitimate bats in their prime to support Pete Alonso, Jeff McNeil, and the now-injured Michael Conforto (all homegrown products).

Yet it's Callaway who is in danger of getting the ax as Matt Ehalt of Yahoo Sports reported on Saturday night that the Mets manager would not be canned on the team's road trip, which ended on Sunday.

That didn't rule out the very real possibility that he would be shown the door today, when the Mets start a seven-game homestand beginning with the Washington Nationals.

Even though Callaway has struggled mightily throughout his stint as Mets manager, he's also been carrying the burden of scapegoat within the organization.

Callaway wasn't Van Wagenen's hire and is one of the last links to former GM Sandy Alderson, who was blamed by the Wilpons for recent struggles after their 2015 World Series appearance.

Firing Callaway creates the illusion that the Wilpons actually care about the direction of the team.

The constant inactivity from ownership over the years when it comes to putting together the best possible team in a big market confirms that they are not in the business of actually contending for a World Series title. It continues to handcuff the rest of the front office — regardless of who the general manager is — and the rest of the organization as it has since the '90s.

It's the same story almost every year: Go out and get some big-ish name(s), most likely past their prime; build up ticket sales; give away a few bobbleheads and T-shirts; and hope enough people showed up to keep the cash flow at an acceptable level.

As long as the Wilpons own the Mets, it's how things are going to go regardless of who the manager is.

And Callaway looks as though he will be a necessary sacrifice in order to deflect the blame from the root of the franchise's problems.

Koepka survives to win PGA Championship and fourth major

A coronation almost turned into a calamity but Brooks Koepka survived to win the PGA Championship for a second consecutive year on Sunday and establish himself as golf's new big dog.

He triumphed at Bethpage Black to secure his fourth major title in less than two years and take over the world No. 1 ranking.

It was not pretty but Koepka limped across the finish line two strokes ahead of fellow American Dustin Johnson in a championship that suddenly came to life in strong and gusty winds that provided a stern examination of skill and patience.

A closing four-over 74 sealed the deal as he became the first champion to lead wire-to-wire since Hal Sutton in 1983.

"I'm just glad we didn't have to play any more holes," Koepka said at the victory presentation as he received the Wanamaker Trophy.

"That wind was up [and] D.J. played awesome. He put the pressure on but I'm glad to have this thing back in my hands."

What looked like being a comfortable march to victory turned into high drama as Koepka made four consecutive bogeys from the 11th hole as Bethpage bared its teeth in the conditions.

A seven-shot lead when he started the day dissolved to a one-shot advantage, with Johnson, playing two groups ahead, making birdie at the 15th hole.

With the raucous gallery cheering for Johnson, it would have been easy for the leader to crumble completely.

But Johnson could not avoid trouble either. He bogeyed the 16th and 17th holes, affording Koepka luxurious breathing space.

Asked if he was aware how tenuous his lead had become, Koepka said: "How could you not with the D.J. chants?"

REUTERS

"I'm just glad we didn't have to play any more holes."

Brooks Koepka

"He put unbelievable pressure on me. I'm still in shock right now. This is awesome."

"I put it in the rough almost every hole today but to grind it out ... this is the most satisfying of all four (major wins)."

Koepka finished at eight-under 272, while Johnson (69) had to settle for second place on six-under, the 2016 U.S. Open remaining his only major title.

Four strokes further back, Americans Jordan Spieth and Patrick Cantlay and Englishman Matt Wallace shared third place.

No player has claimed their first four majors as quickly as Koepka, who won back-to-back U.S. Open titles in 2017-18.

He also became the first repeat PGA Championship winner since Tiger Woods in 2007. REUTERS
